

Peter Jagers

"The motor of evolution is extinction"

After a discussion of the role of extinction in evolution, posing questions rather than giving answers, I proceed to extinction of branching processes, in particular the effect of conditioning upon extinction, the time and path to extinction, and finally some words on the last minutes before extinction.