This will present studies of correlations between graphs and other structures and statistical analysis of graphs that we have developed for finding for instance `high scoring networks' for detecting interesting gene networks in cancer.